

David A. Lavenburg Of Counsel

"Since 1991, I have litigated all over Massachusetts and Connecticut for lenders and financial institutions, large corporations, small businesses and everyday people. Regardless of the client or the size of the case, my approach is the always the same. I listen to my clients to understand their objectives and work with them to provide aggressive, strategic and cost effective representation every step of the way to settlement or trial and beyond."

David represents creditors of all kinds such as banks, credit unions and debt purchasers in loan recovery and collection matters. His legal work spans a wide variety of areas including loan recovery, complex commercial litigation and general business litigation, lease disputes, commercial collections, real estate foreclosure, and bankruptcy litigation. David is admitted to practice in the state and federal courts of Massachusetts and Connecticut. He appears regularly in the trial and appellate courts for both states and has argued in the Connecticut Supreme Court.
